Join us for a Holiday Open house where Youth Opportunities Unlimited and Push for Change come together to raise awareness for youth homelessness from 2pm to 8pm on December 8th, 2016.

Joe Roberts, of Push for Change, will share his story from 5pm to 7pm with the London community and allow young people the opportunity to participate in a discussion around homelessness and understand the importance of staying engaged in their families, their schools and their communities.

You will also get the exciting chance to take a tour of The New Addition Building at the North West corner of Ridout and York (formerly GTs) and hear all about our New Addition Campaign, aimed at transforming the building into a safe space and apartments for at risk teen mothers.

So please join us for some snacks, some drinks, an exciting silent auction and much more and to learn all about what the London Community is doing to put an end to youth homelessness.

Admission is free, please RSVP using the following link:
For more information please call Margeaux Levesque at 519.204.2499.
