

Joe Roberts on the podcast to talk about Push for Change

 ottawawrench.ca/joe-roberts-on-the-podcast-to-talk-about-push-for-change/

Joey Clavette

3/14/2017

Joe Roberts walks across Canada with a shopping cart. Photo Courtesy: Push for Change.

On this episode I did a phone-in interview with Joe Roberts who is currently in Thunder Bay, running from Newfoundland to B.C. to raise intrigue about homelessness, especially youth homelessness. Joe himself has lived experience being street involved and homeless, but he turned his life around with help from family and a certain police officer. He went on to become an entrepreneur, author and public speaker. Now he's focused on the push for change.

You can read more about him from us here and here. His own website can be found here.

Donate to our Patreon here

Learn about all the ways to donate and volunteer with the links below

Ottawa Mission for men

Youth Services Bureau

Salvation Army Booth Centre

Alliance to End Homelessness

Ottawa Food Bank

High Jinx Social Enterprise shop

We plan to make a full and comprehensive Tool Box at some point where you can navigate all the different ways to donate using our website.